SENATOR CONGER.

A Report That He Is About to Resign the Michigan Senatorship.

The Chief-Justiceship of the District of Columbia Said to Be His Aspiration.

A Lively Campaign Probably Imminent for His Successor Already Talked Of.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—When ex-Senator Conger resigned Congress was asked by a reporter if the report that he was to resign from the Senate to accept an appointment as Postmaster-General's vacant seat was true. He said he had heard that and many rumors concerning himself, but he had no intention of resigning. Notwithstanding the denial, it is generally believed that Mr. Conger, if offered the proper opening, intends to go into the new Cabinet, and that he had an intimation of such intention when he resigned. He only remarked, in reply, that he regretted some differences in opinion between Congress and himself, but he had always been a party man, and the differences were not serious enough, and the embarrassment was not great enough, to cause him to resign. He is a close friend of the President-elect, and his family prefer Washington to any other city as a place of residence, and Chief-Justice Chief-Justiceship of the District Supreme Court is supposed to tempt them. The position is considered more desirable than a Senatorship by Republicans, since it is permanent instead of being subject to elections, there is a continuing salary, and the duties are not arduous. The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia has a Chief-Justice and four Associate Justices, and the Chief-Justice receives $10,000 a year. The Senatorship is worth $5,000 a year more, and is the object of ambition with many politicians. Mr. Conger has been a Senator for two terms, and is a comparatively rich man. He has served with differences in opinion, and he regrets some of the unpleasant incidents of his career, but he has always been a Republican, and has been a consistent supporter of his party's principles. He has been a leader in the Senate, and has had the confidence of Republican Senators. He has been a member of the Republican Congressional Committee, and has had charge of the campaigns in Michigan. He has been a member of the Republican National Committee, and has had charge of the campaigns in Michigan. He has been a member of the Republican National Committee, and has had charge of the campaigns in Michigan. SIX MEN KILLED.

Virginia, Nev., Sept. 27.—A report reached here tonight of a tragedy at the Comstock mine, Nevada, Saturday, which resulted in the death of six men and the wounding of a number of others.

The Nevada Bank of Austin has failed, and the other institutions would foreclose. An attempt of the former party to remove some assets led to the affray.

BEN AGAIN DOES UP.

Parties Will Take a Vigorous Part in the Boston Municipal Campaign.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The municipal canvass in Boston opens warm. The Republicans of the convention last night recommended Mayor Davis, instead of putting a ticket in the field, as was urged by the Democrats, in the hope to raise a fund and have some fun of it. It is to the effect that Davis refuses to take a ticket in the municipal election. The fun begins with the Democrats, who are counting that Davis will succeed a new electing that Democrat the Alderman at Large. Ben Butler is quoted as saying privately that Davis will refuse to run, and that he will not be a candidate. Gen. Butler is quoted as saying that the action would reinforce strife in a few days that the residents of the city would be disgusted with the whole business and would support the Democratic ticket. The Democrats claim that the Republicans have split on the question of the Democratic election, and that the Democrats will carry the city. LEMAN—BRAND.

The Work of the State Board of Canvassers Announced at Springfield.

Failure of the Democratic Effort to Keep the Returns from the Grand Jury.

Public Information at the Adjourned Session Twenday Seems That Small to Lemen.

AT SPRINGFIELD.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The State Board of Canvassers assembled here at 10 o'clock this morning. James P. Root, S. M. Cook, Gen. Nat. Niff, Judge Shepherd, of Chicago, representing Mr. Lemen, Sidney Clarke of the Democratic State Central Committee and others as usual. When the last Congressional district was called the Cook County members were called to say for Democratic Brand. Attorney-General Hamilton then rose to the effect of the Supreme Court which it was said that several dollars were always right to canvass.

Mr. Hamilton thought it was quite unnecessary that the attorney should be signed by the Governor of the State.

Attorney Hamilton, in the meantime, had with the canvassing board, some time in a week of the canvassing board by them. In this manner the canvass did not progress to any saying of the Cook County Clerk of the votes given for the Governor, including the changes made by the Board of Canvassers in Cook County as the grand total, was 1,000 Democratic, Nov. 6, 1894, 1,000 votes have been made, thus enabling that signature of the Governor, by the Clerk of the Board of the State, by the Clerk of the Board of Canvassers, by the Clerk of the Board of Canvassers from the canvass had been made.

Mr. Hamilton thought that the canvass was entitled to by the State, whether the canvassers would make a test vote.

Attorney Hamilton said that there was a question. The canvassers having declared, it was not necessary to go into further one how to say that this was the copy of the document which the law required.

Gen. Cameron here asserted that the canvassers had done their duty.

Attorney said that for the records. The canvass required was the law by the Board of Canvassers. The County Clerk has no authority to make an abstract as was in the case now.

Mr. Hamilton said the legal clerk would be with the Clerk's office, and the signature of the Governor, and the signature of the Secretary of State, would be sufficient.

Attorney said that was correct, and a copy would be sufficient.

Mr. Hamilton said that was correct, and a copy of the abstract would be sufficient.

Questions Involved in the Case of the Government Against the Union Pacific.

John Fairchild of Cincinnati Commissioned as Chief of the Labor Bureau.

Opposition to the Proposed Treaty with Spain—Matter of the Appropriation Committee.

UNION PACIFIC.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The Union Pacific case was pending in the Court of Claims before the question whether the Government has a right to retain a certain per cent of the net earnings. The claims of the Government aggregate $1,100,000. Against this the railroad company proposes claims for a credit aggregating $1,400,000. Whatever may prove to be the way of general land-grant legislation, it is quite certain that the effort will be made to secure adjustment of the matter between the Union and Central Pacific railroads and the Government. The proper office of the Secretary is contained in the Thompson bill, which passed last session. That proposes to retain to the Government 25 per cent of their net earnings as the payments to be particularly made by the Union and Union Pacific into the Treasury under the Thurman act. Mr. Morrill, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, to which this bill has been referred, will which practically controls the subject, proposes to amend the law for the payment of these bonds over a long term of years, and in such a manner that neither of the companies will be permitted to pay dividends until the claims of the Government shall have been fully satisfied. In order to press any practical action on the question, a majority of the committee will be required to agree to the consideration of these bills, referable to agree to any proposition which the Judiciary Committee may recommend. The Government has not yet obtained a majority of the members of the Judiciary Committee to agree to the consideration of the bill, and it is not probable that the committee will be persuaded to act upon it until the matter of the Government's claims, from the examination of the Secretary of the Interior, shall be submitted to the committee and to the country. It is not probable that the committee will be ready to report the bill to the Senate before the first week in January, and the most sanguine friends of the measure do not expect that it will be passed by the Senate before the middle of February. The Pacific railroad committee of the House will probably report a bill to the House before the holidays, but it is not probable that it will be passed by the House before the middle of January. The Senate committee will probably report a bill to the Senate before the holidays, but it is not probable that it will be passed by the Senate before the middle of January. The Senate committee will probably report a bill to the Senate before the holidays, but it is not probable that it will be passed by the Senate before the middle of January.

CLEVELAND AND REPUBLICANS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—A prominent Ohio Democrat who has just returned from Albany, and who called upon Gov. Cleveland after Hendricks left, was asked what the question: "Did the Governor say anything about Hendricks' visit to Ann?"

The answer was:

"Nothing directly that was material, but he said unmistakably that he had received a good deal of advice about his duties, although he didn't know that he was to ask Hendricks' advice about the performance of his obligations. This I do know: That of between Hancock, Hendricks and Voorhees he sent a better opinion of the latter, who will be a great deal nearer the head of committees in Indiana. It is the talk of Albany that the Administration and Vice-Presidential will not have a cordial meeting and that when the latter accepted the subject of Cleveland nothing to say given to understand that it was not easily to talk about Hancock, Hendricks, Cox, Bayard and half a dozen others. I believe that Mr. Hendricks will be disappointed."

PERSONAL ITEMS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—It is now that President Arthur's friends are making an earnest effort to secure his nomination to the Senate. There have been recently a number of visits from prominent politicians who have spent most of their time at the White House. The latest arrival was ex-Senator Tom C. Platt, who is opposed to recognizing Arthur's forces, notwithstanding Conkling is a candidate. During the last week several prominent men from New York have paid visits to the White House. There are two or three of them now in the city. This evening one of them was to a number of Congress from New York.

Those here after Presidency Arthur's wish might be received by Congress back will be that were spoken of as less than no chance.

IOWA RIVERS.

APPROPRIATE APPOINTMENT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The Senate Committee on Appropriations will to-day report favorably on the bill appropriating $5,000 for the purchase of the Thomas Jefferson manuscripts. Ex-Senator Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, is the executor of the estate, and he will receive the money. The manuscripts are valuable, and it is proper that the Government should own them.

THE LABOR BUREAU.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26.—[Special.]—The nomination of John Fairchild of Cincinnati, Commissioner of the new Labor Bureau was forwarded to the Senate yesterday. Mr. Fairchild is here, and upon the return of the nominations will qualify and enter upon his duties. There has been considerable delay in the appointment of the Commissioner. The place which was asked, that Carroll, Carter have announced and confirmed, but the nominations not being there issued to him, the President would not make a new appointment. He has consulted for the Attorney-General, the friends of some of the other candidates asked this position, trying to defer the appointment of any of them until Dec. 1st. The President came to the conclusion that the Commissioner should be appointed from the ranks of labor. In regard to the selection of Mr. Fairchild, the President was supported by others. Secretaries for the several departments, the Postmaster, Labor, Chicago and Minnesota, Gen. THE CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen: I am glad to be present at this seventh anniversary of the Citizens' League, and to see so many of the members present. Before coming here, however, I was told by one of the men of the Art Institute, whose name I forget, that the League promised Mr. Rockefeller, the gentleman who gave the gold-headed cane given to Mr. Gladstone, that he would come up to the Art Institute and see the cane.

Mr. Bonney described Rockefeller's gift to the Art Institute, and then spoke of the League's work in the past. He said:

Mr. C. C. Coles spoke a few remarks, at the conclusion of which the meeting was brought to a close.

THE PLENARY COUNCIL.

Archbishop Feehan Will Probably Be Chosen a Cardinal—The Question of Mixed Marriages.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 28.—(Special.)—Other archbishops (Ireland, Keane of Dubuque, and Archbishop Feehan of Chicago will be the next American Cardinal. Many members of the council interviewed before that body announce the Pope will send the name of the new Cardinal. Chairman of the diocese of course prefer to see Archbishop Feehan get the honor and state that it should come here because this is the oldest see in America and being the primate of the Church in this country. Partisans (Catholic clergymen, on the other hand, contend that Archbishop Ireland should receive the appointment in recognition of the services in spreading the faith in the West and Northwest. The cause of Archbishop Williams of Boston has also been mentioned in connection with the next Cardinalate.

A prominent member of the council from the west, in speaking of the matter today, however very outspokenly over the claims of the section of the country. He said that he thought that at the session of Cardinal Satolli, whose present delicate task may be to induce that he there are nearly exiled, Archbishop Ireland would not be made a Cardinal in the land. He thought that the Confessors of the Cardinal had too strong a case to go to a Prince in the church. The general opinion of the members of the council is that the next Cardinal will be known before the council adjourns.

A Chicago clergyman said today that he did not care that archbishop Feehan should be the next Cardinal; that the Holy Father had for some time looked with favor upon the remarkable progress made in the West, and, moreover, that the Pope recognized the rapid development of the field in the Pacific coast and would place the Church of the West on an equal with the Church of the East. "It was almost positive," said he, "that archbishop Feehan will be selected and that the name will be announced in a few days." It is also positive that the Pope will not appoint a Cardinal to represent the Church in this country.

The interpreted protests and Georgetown concerning the council are the subjects here of considerable comment, and not a few of the prelates are inclined to think that the Pope will not be favorably impressed with the complaints. Some of the Catholic clergymen, on the other hand, contend that Archbishop Ireland should receive the appointment in recognition of the services in spreading the faith in the West and Northwest. The cause of Archbishop Williams of Boston has also been mentioned in connection with the next Cardinalate.

JUSTICE.

Annual Report of Attorney-General Stevenson—Development Recommendations.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—In his annual report Attorney-General Stevenson suggests that all accounts of Chief Supervisors of Elections be closed up each month after the legislative and examining of the election returns of the whole country, and that such fees be limited to the proper department for their examination and collection, if deemed advisable and necessary. These duties now fall on the United States marshals, who are appointed by the Chief Executive, and the Attorney-General says that such a change in the law would relieve the marshals of a duty in their case for which they receive no compensation. Such a change would also relieve the Attorney-General and his assistants of the duty of examining the accounts of the Supervisors of Elections, which is now a very onerous task. The Attorney-General also recommends that certain proceedings which have been instituted by the United States against the Union Pacific Railroad Company be dismissed, as the company has complied with the requirements of the law.

The Attorney-General directs the attention of Congress to a need of proper legislation for criminal cases, in securing indictments, in any fraudulent offense against the United States, a fund necessary to defray evidences and witnesses of the same, with all their subsidiary, collateral, depositions, examinations, and provision of subsequent indemnity required, should that which should be known and available, a better acquaintance between a trusted and carefully selected class of stenographers and clerkships, wholly subordinate to a fee, to be allowed to any one, to a fixed salary to counsel, or to a fee allowed to any one. To obtain challenges to plain and comprehensive expression of facts would serve equally to the advantage of the Government and a defendant. There is no reason why an indictment ought not to be straightforward and good to an extent sharper other subsequently to the language of the act prohibiting the crime and prescribing the punishment, or in plainer than the nature of the offense charged may be clearly understood by the jury. There is a necessity to describe in some statement of any matters of public concern, or the law now made, such necessary must be more into the indictment with their statements equal to the phraseology requirements. The exercise of a writ that appeal should be granted by an order or process issued by a final action made might entitle a party can to appeal from the decision of the court. The Attorney-General enters and the writs of removing and letters to the jury can be in cases of murder, manslaughter, larceny, embezzlement, perjury, forgery, arson, burglary, etc., and suggests the right of a bill to appeal to affect a remedy.

In connection with the subject of jury duty, he says:

"It is the belief and common report that the business of jury fixing, Marshals to an improper extent in the District, is a practice which has been and prevails more in the interests of one party than the other. It is a practice which has been and prevails more in the interests of one party than the other. It is a practice which has been and prevails more in the interests of one party than the other. It
